The Cronkite - NBC News Internship
SUMMER 2012

Spend the semester at NBC News and gain the experience needed to start your journalism career as a Cronkite/NBC News Intern. NBC and The Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication now offers two New York internships to work on the network’s top shows for a semester. Applications must be received by February 24, 2012 for the summer 2012 semester. Please note: the summer internships in New York City are very competitive.

Additional Information:
• Placement may be made on any NBC News program
• Internship is full time and unpaid. Students are required to register the internship for academic credit from Arizona State University prior to starting assignment
• The Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication has scholarships available up to $2000 per student to help defray living costs. In order to qualify for the scholarship, a student must register for the internship through the Cronkite School at Arizona State University. No exceptions will be made.

Qualifications:
• Enrolled in a Bachelor's or Master's program at The Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication
• 18 years or older and successfully completed JMC 301/JMC 315 (intermediate reporting and writing) and JMC 305 (online media)
• Must have a GPA of 3.0 or higher

To Apply:
• Send your cover letter, resume, unofficial transcript and three references to Michael Wong, Director of Career Services, Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication at cronkitecareerservices@asu.edu
